

TCM management of food allergy and intolerance

A food allergy is an adverse immune response to a food protein, while food intolerance is adverse responses to food. In reality there are many patients searching for TCM support and treatment. In modern medicine, the key treatment is immunotherapy or avoidance of these foods. However, TCM holds that there is imbalance of Interior environment, which causes dysfunction of formation of Heat in the Blood, accumulation of Damp-Phlegm and generation of Toxic Heat and formation of Liver-Wind, etc. In the end when the Interior balance is obtained in the body, food allergy or intolerance could be completely or greatly under control.

FOOD ALLERGIES

Contents

This seminar will cover

- food allergy and intolerance
- including lactose intolerance and sensitivity,
- gluten intolerance and gluten-sensitivity,
- alcohol intolerance and sensitivity,
- fructose intolerances,
- etc.

Features

This seminar will present their etiologies, pathologies, clinical symptoms, differentiation and treatment with acupuncture and Chinese herbs.

Voor deze dag hebben we beroep gedaan op een topdocent, namelijk Sun Pei Lin, auteur van diverse boeken in de Traditionele Chinese Geneeswijzen.

